

ISIS has been a global problem and everyone should address it because ISIS kills and attacks so many citizens. No one knows when they'll attack or where. ISIS is such a big group and all they want is to harm people. People should care about ISIS because they have members all over the world , there's also Isis investigations occurring in the United States. Isis was formed in 1999. We don't know exactly how many members ISIS consists of but it can range from 50,000 - 200,000 members. There goal is to create an Islamic State. They have also had about 75 attacks in 20 countries. Turkey has finally declared war on ISIS after 2 years of the cold war. Turkey and ISIS avoided fighting because they knew that if they fought there would be major destruction on both sides. Turkey has been accused of allowing ISIS fighters to cross through the border and sell oil from the fields they captured in Iraq and Syria on its black market. In order to prevent that from occurring is to register every person that comes through, even if they do not have papers. Turkish armed forces have been accused of not detaining people who cross the border , but they do stop thousands of people weekly and don't allow the ones with weapons such as guns or grenades to cross over to Syria . Thier main responsibility is to stand up and be very clear that we are going to protect Turkey.
